

Read more, together.

The social reading app that turns a quiet habit into a streak you keep — powered by friends, timers, and a little friendly competition.

THE PROBLEM WITH READING

Everyone wants to read more. The habit just quietly slips —
because no one's watching.

1 in 4

started books are abandoned within the first 50 pages.

Solo

reading has no streaks, no nudges, and no one to keep pace with.

ReadStreak

makes it shared, measured, and a little competitive — so you keep going.

THE CORE LOOP

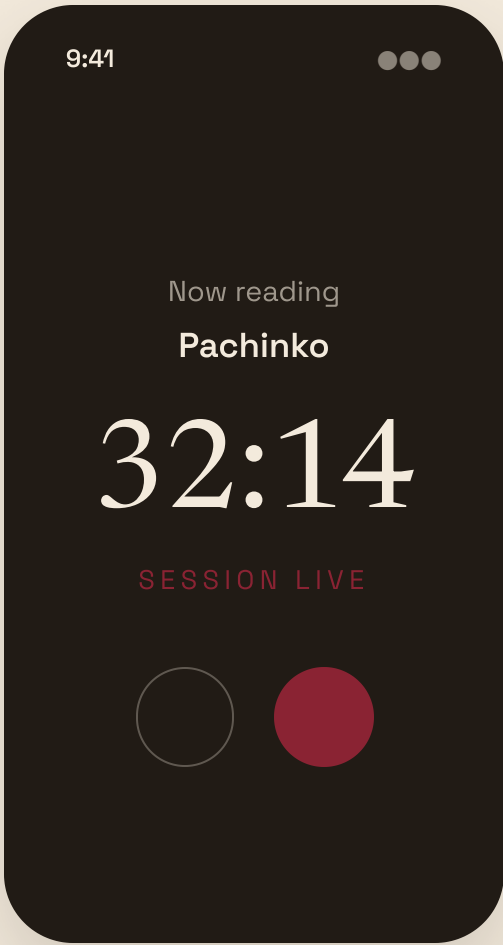

Three taps from shelf to streak

01

Open a book

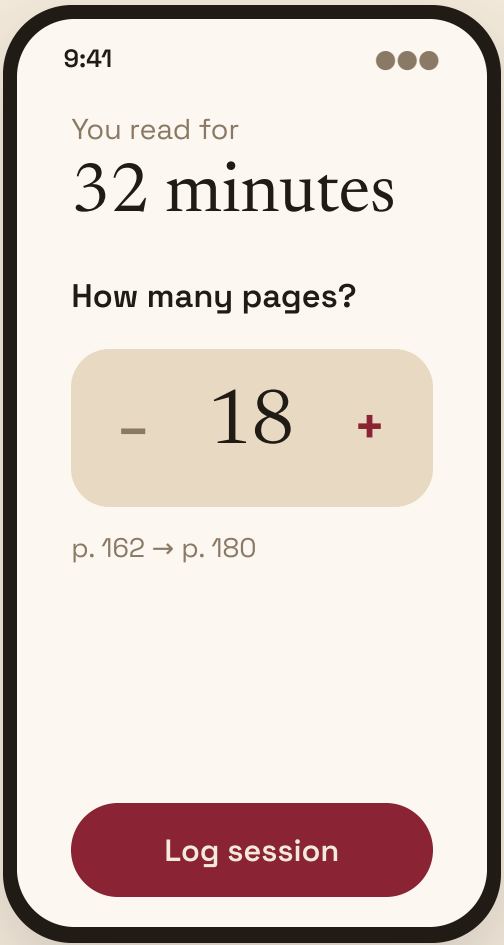

Tap any title on your shelf to jump back in where you left off.

02

Start the timer

It runs quietly while you read. Pause or stop whenever you put it down.

03

Log your pages

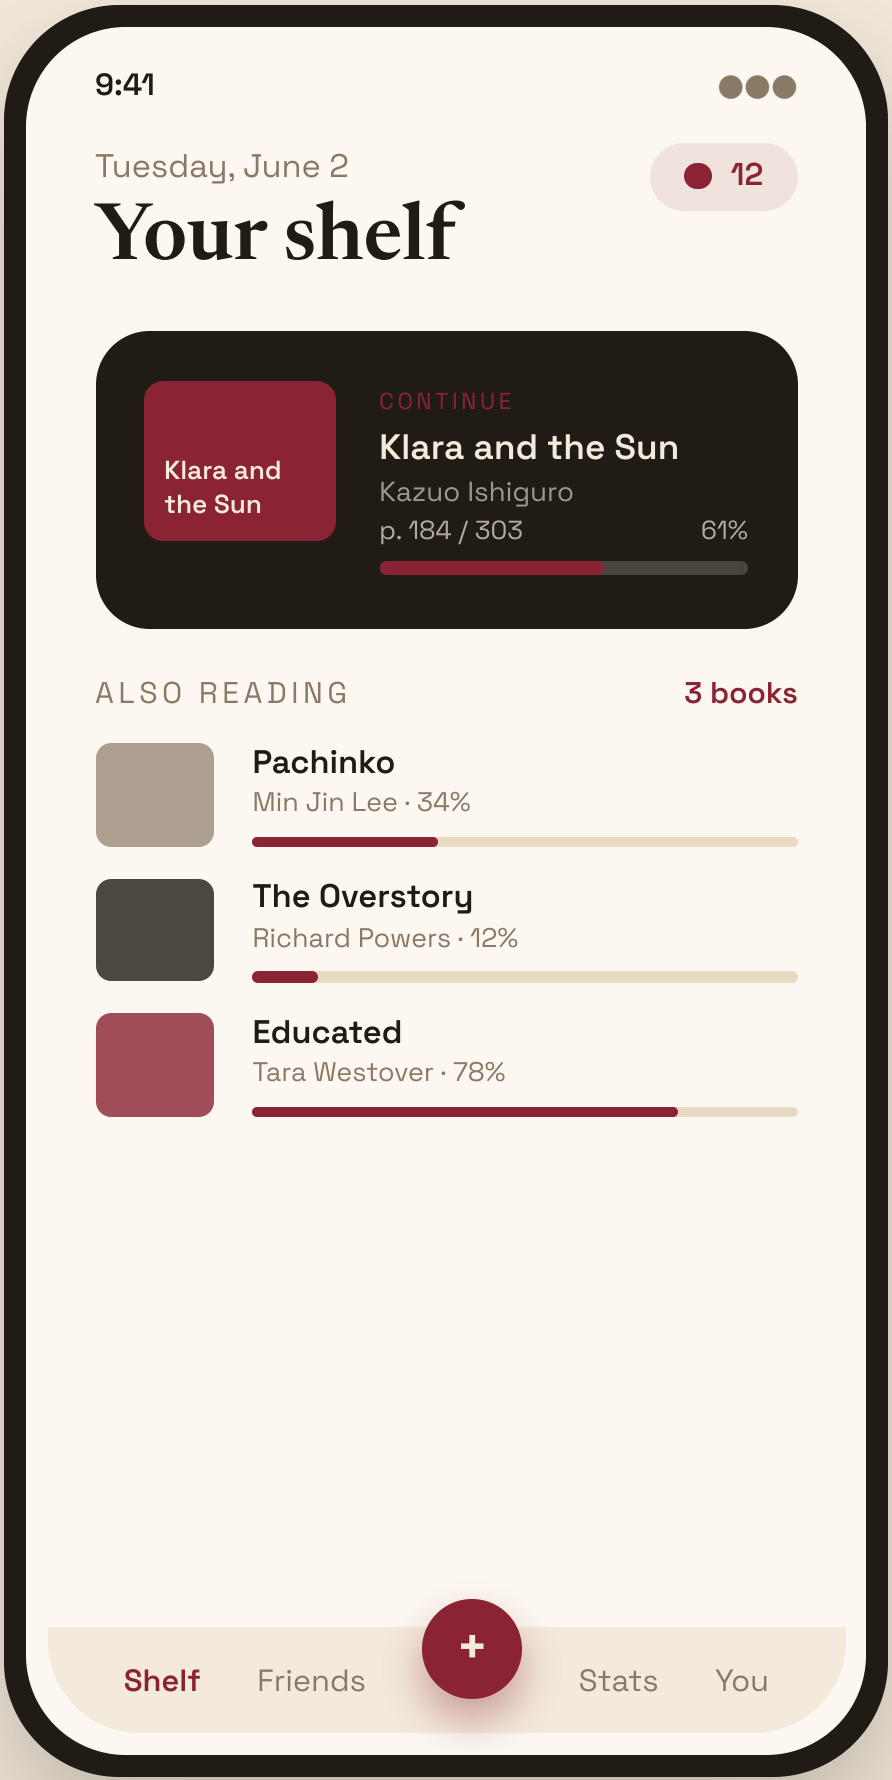

Enter pages read — your progress, pace, and streak update instantly.

THE LOG BOOK

Every book you're reading, in one shelf

Your home screen. Pick up where you left off, track progress on each title, and keep your streak in view.

- Streak in the corner
Your day count is always visible — the gentlest nudge to keep it alive.
- Live progress bars
Pages read, percent complete, and pace — updated after every session.
- One tap to read
Tap a cover to open it and start the timer instantly.

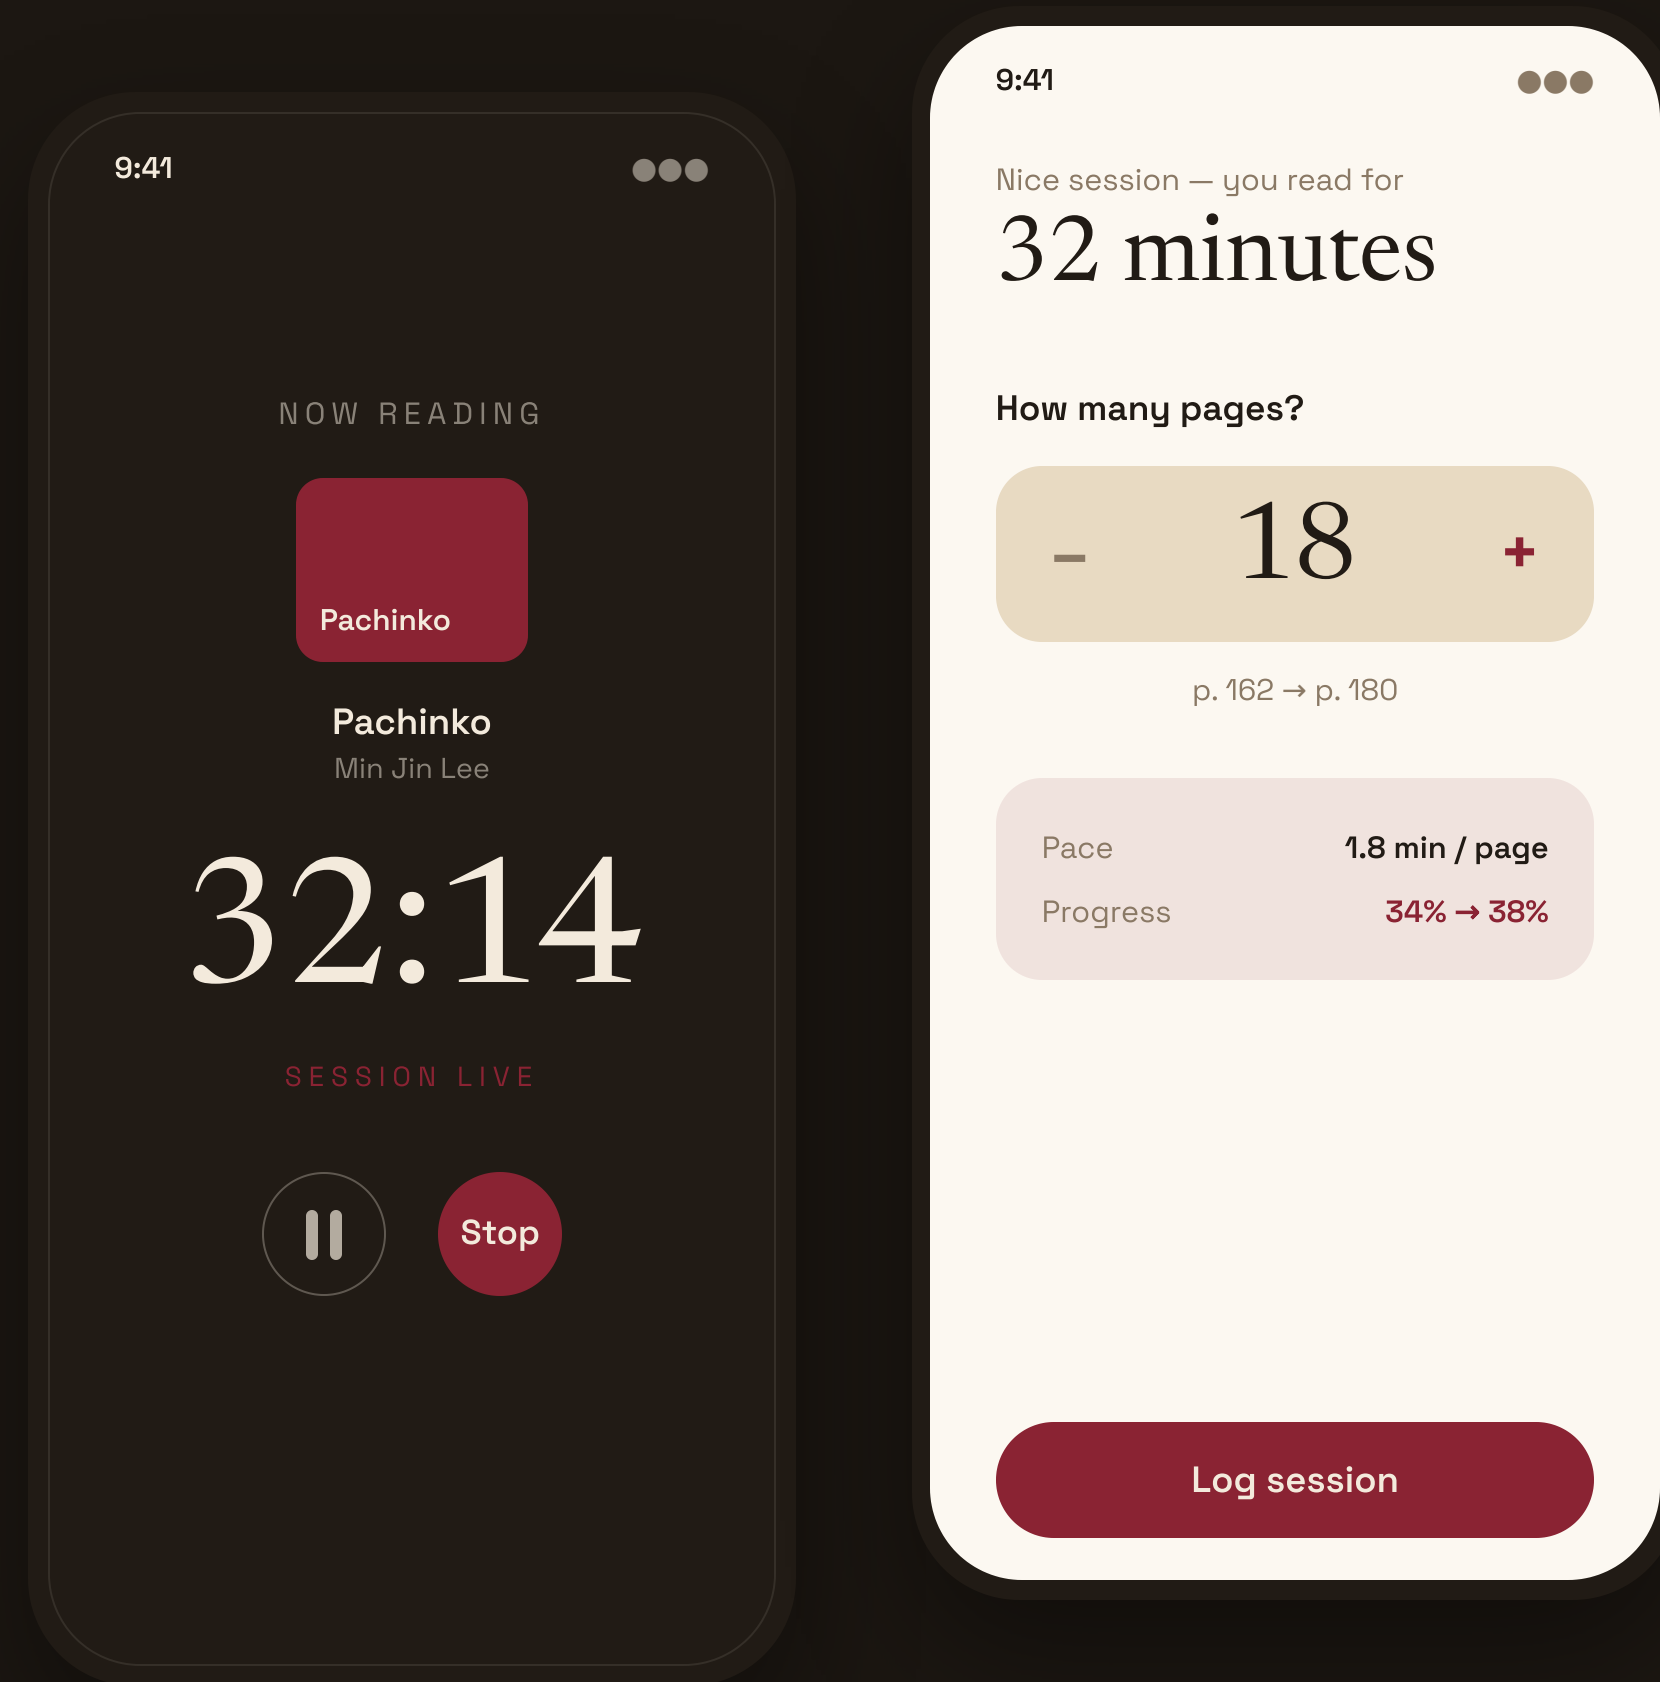

READING SESSIONS

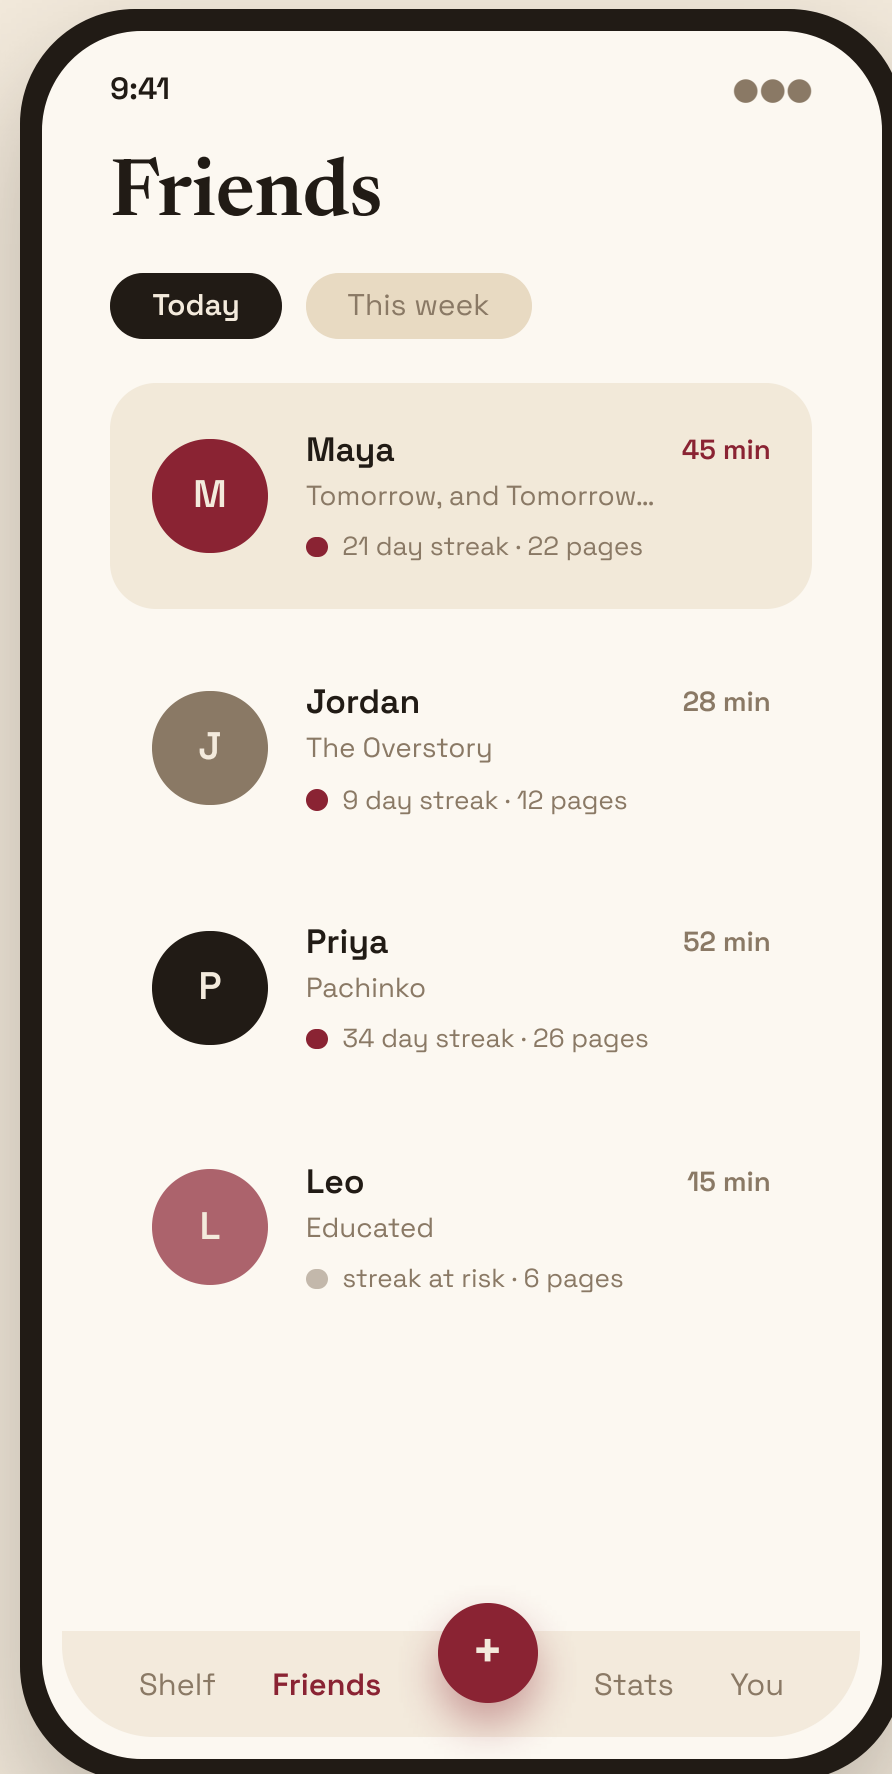

A timer that counts every minute you read

Tap into a book and the session timer starts. When you stop, log the pages — ReadStreak does the math on pace, time, and progress.

32:14 18

time this session pages logged

FRIENDS

See what everyone read today

A living feed of your reading circle — minutes read, pages turned, current books, and whose streak is on the line.

Daily & weekly

Toggle between today's numbers and the seven-day picture.

What they're reading

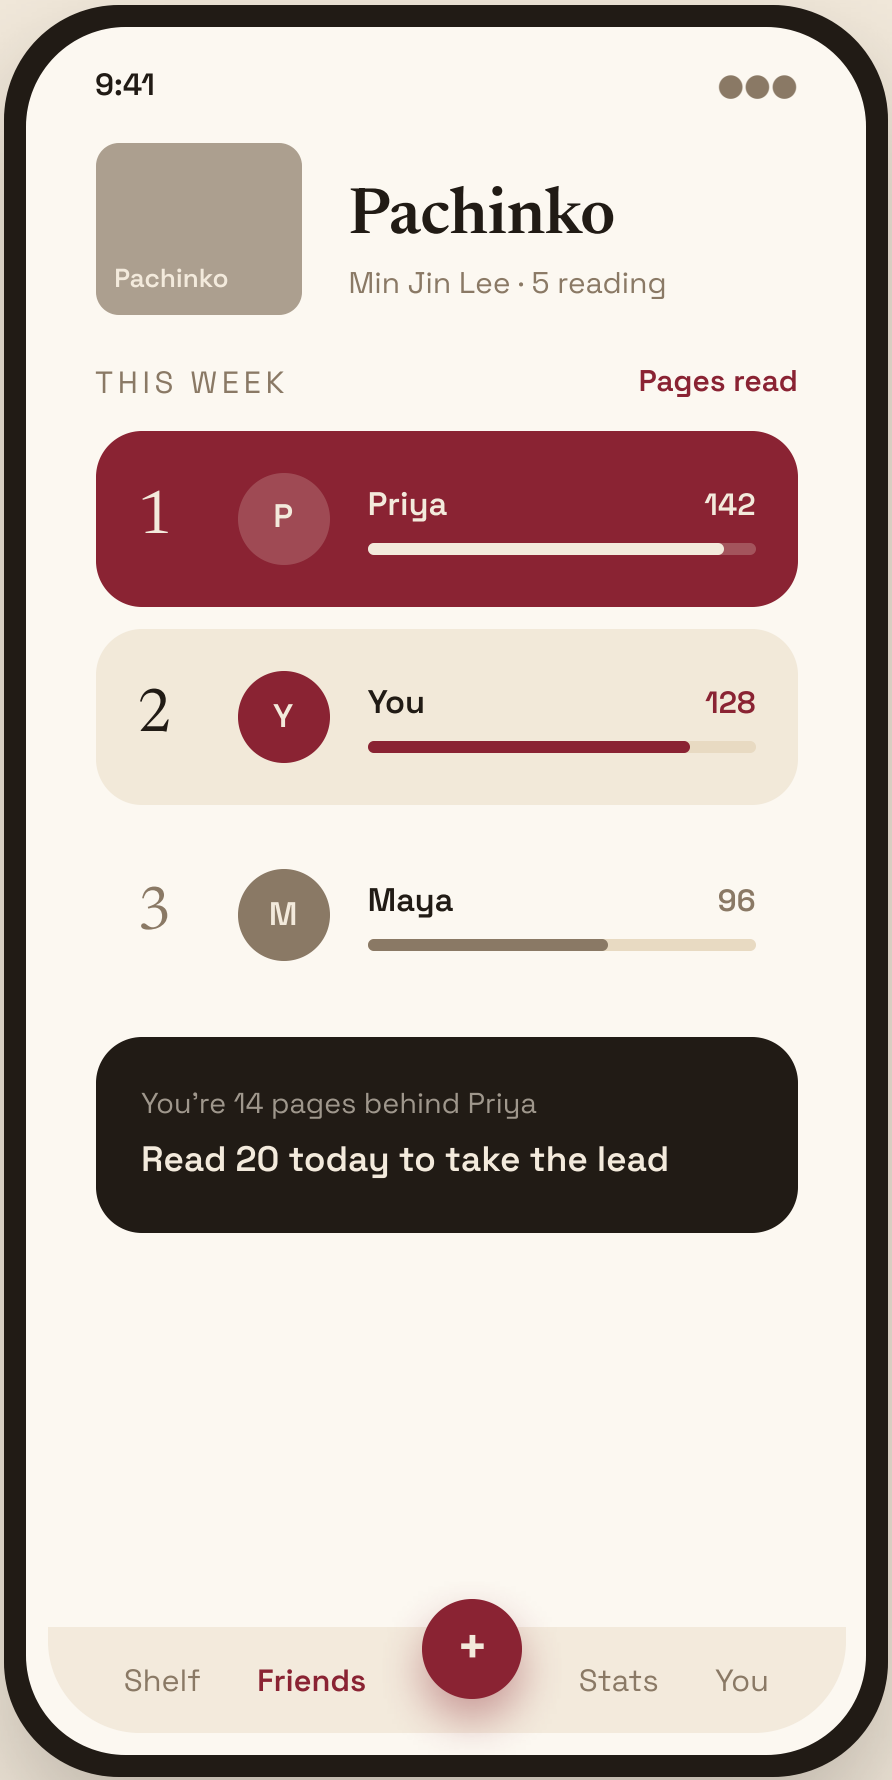

Every friend's current title — your next great recommendation.

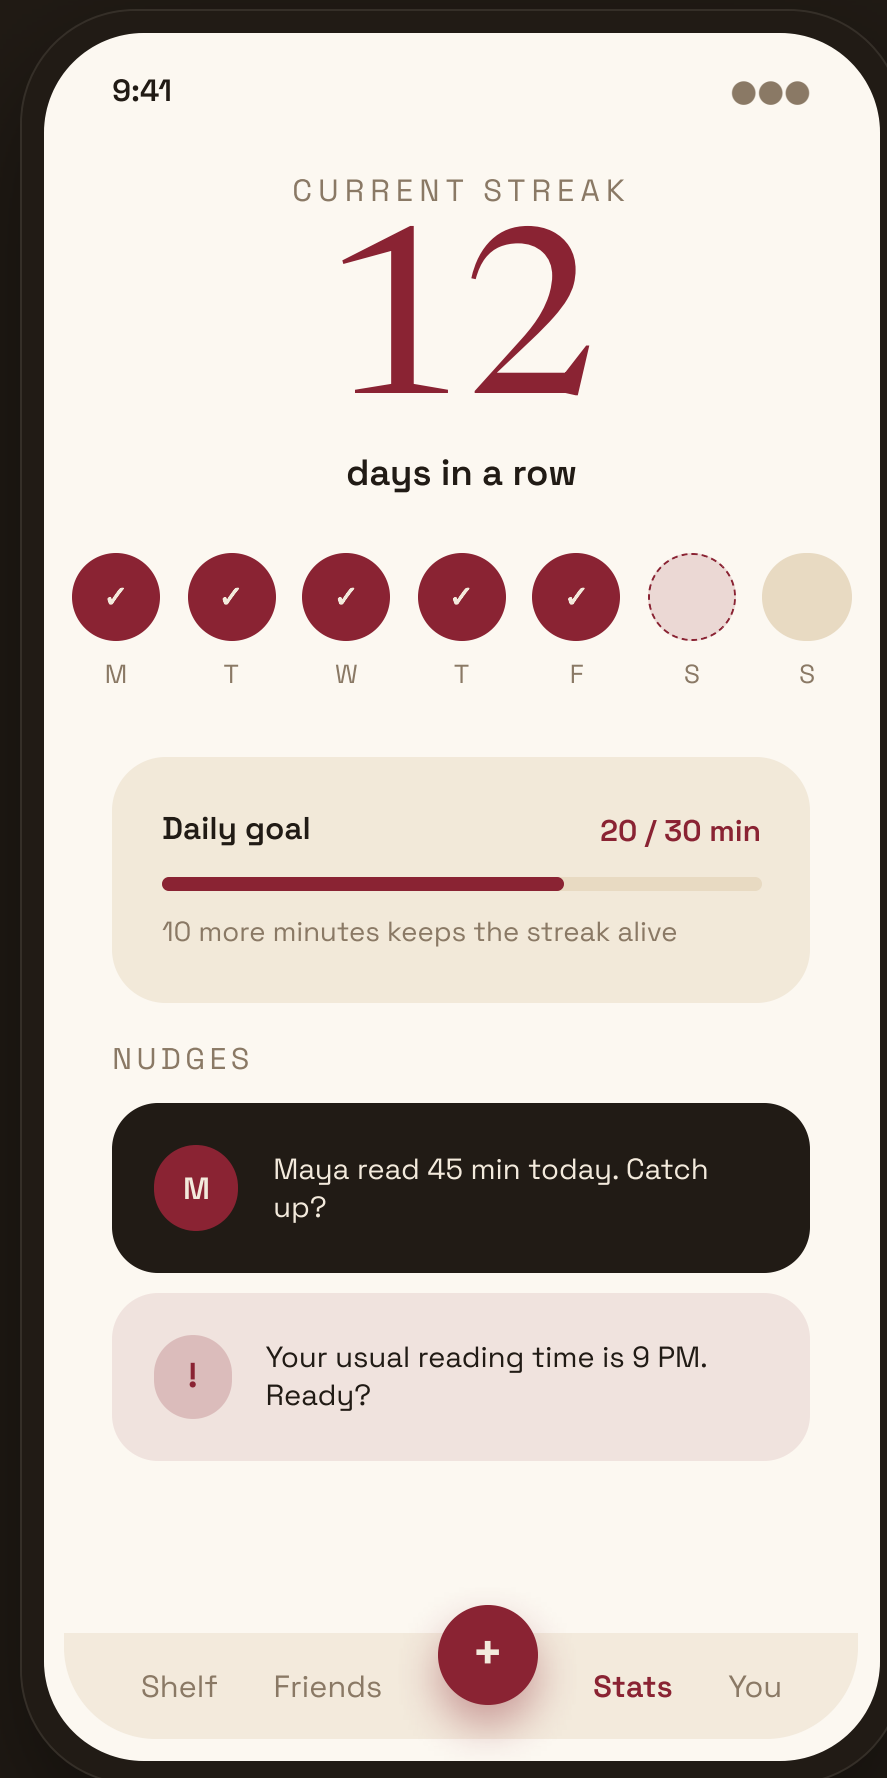

READING TOGETHER

Same book. Friendly race to the last page.

Add friends to any book and a shared leaderboard appears. Watch progress climb side by side — nothing pulls you back to the page like being two chapters behind.

- Shared progress — see exactly where each reader is in the book.
- Live ranking — pages this week decide the order.
- Spoiler-safe — discuss only up to the slowest reader’s page.

STREAKS & NUDGES

The gentle pressure that keeps you reading

Streaks, daily goals, and well-timed nudges turn intention into routine — and your friends' progress into motivation.

Streaks & goals

Daily minute goals build a streak you won't want to break.

Smart reminders

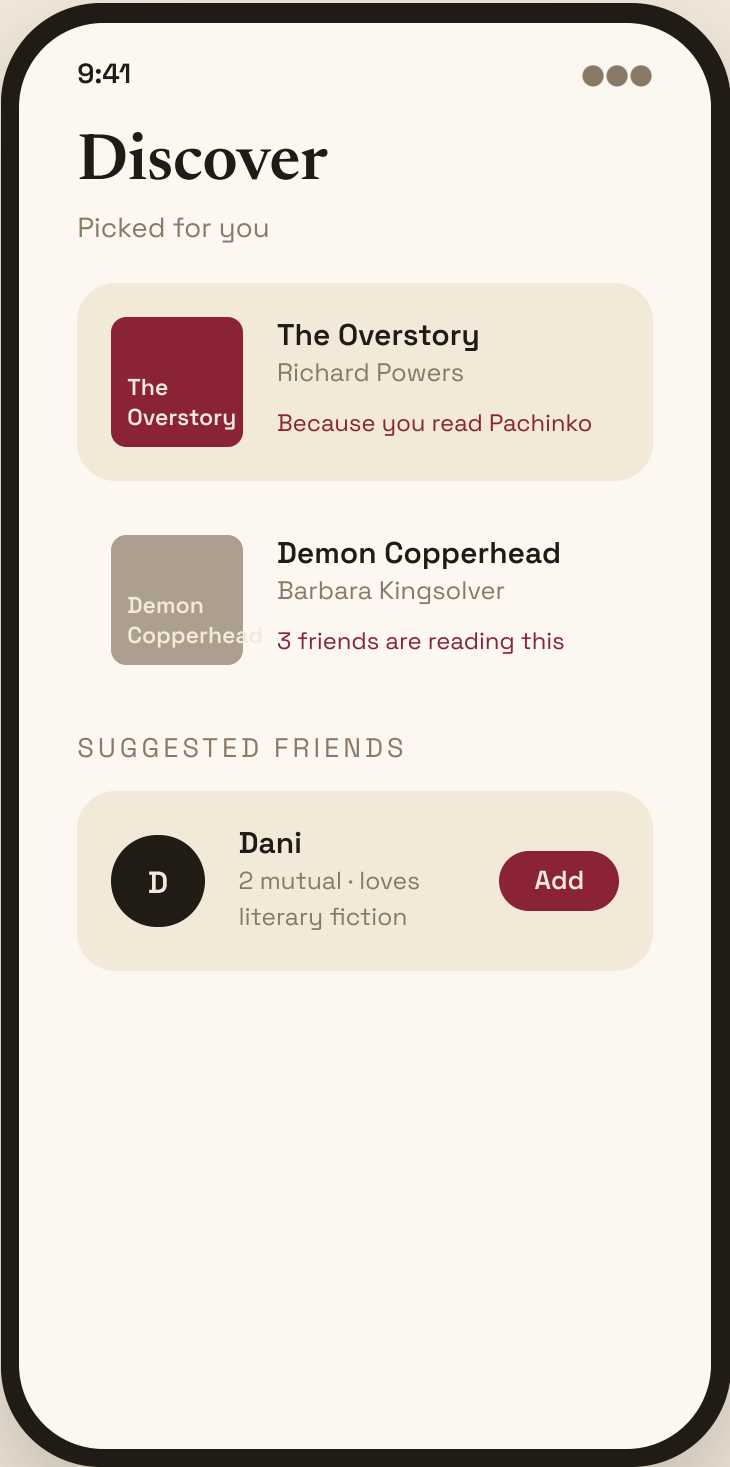

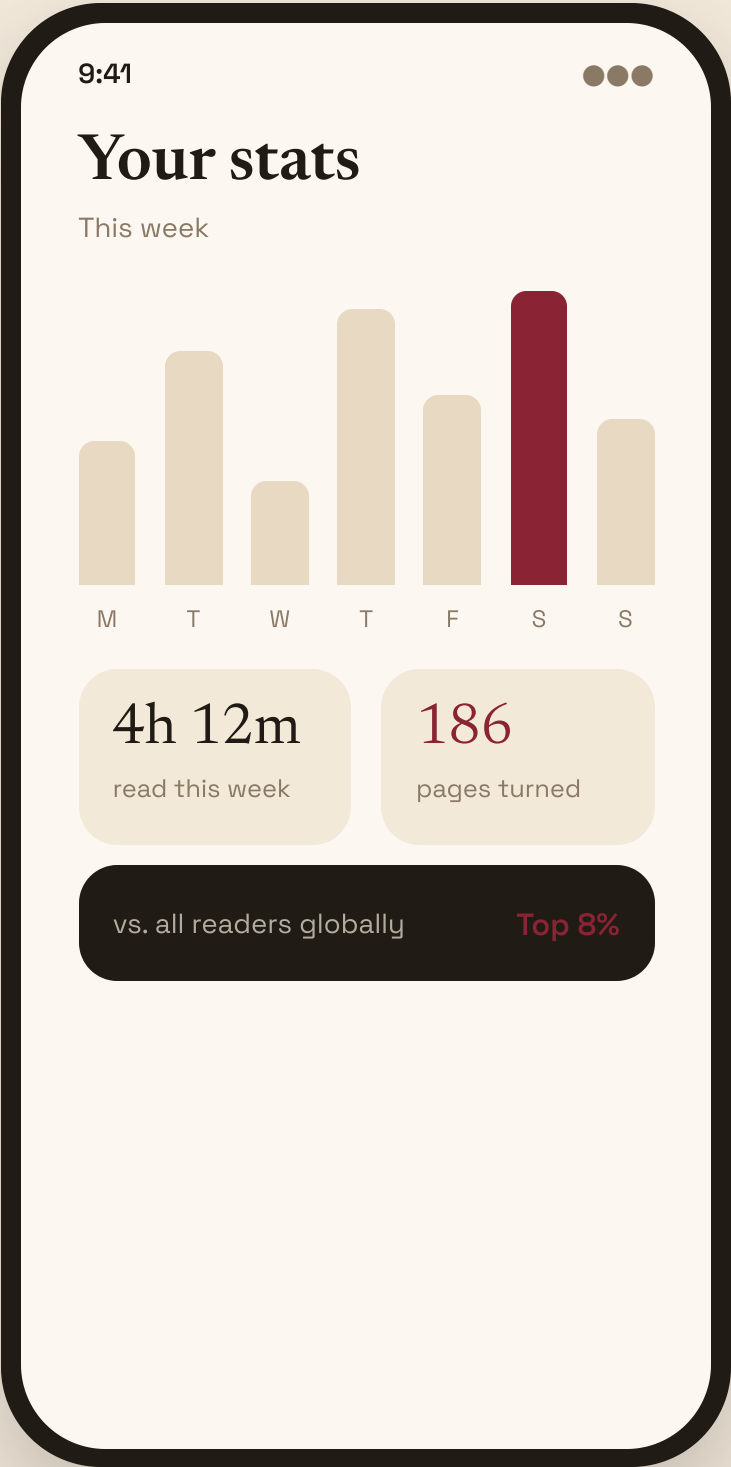

Nudges arrive at your habitual reading time, not at random.

Friendly pressure

When a friend pulls ahead, you'll be the first to know.

STATS & DISCOVERY

Know your numbers. Find your next read.

Your reading, measured

Weekly time and pages, plus where you stand against every reader on ReadStreak — not just your friends.

Curated recommendations

Next reads drawn from your taste and what your circle is loving right now.

Suggested friends

Find readers with shared taste and mutual connections to grow your circle.

WHERE IT GOES NEXT

Four ways to keep the pages turning.

01

Reading Rooms

Book clubs with spoiler-safe discussion.

02

Margin notes

Friends' reactions, anchored to the page.

03

Reading Wrapped

A yearly recap worth sharing.

04

The finish line

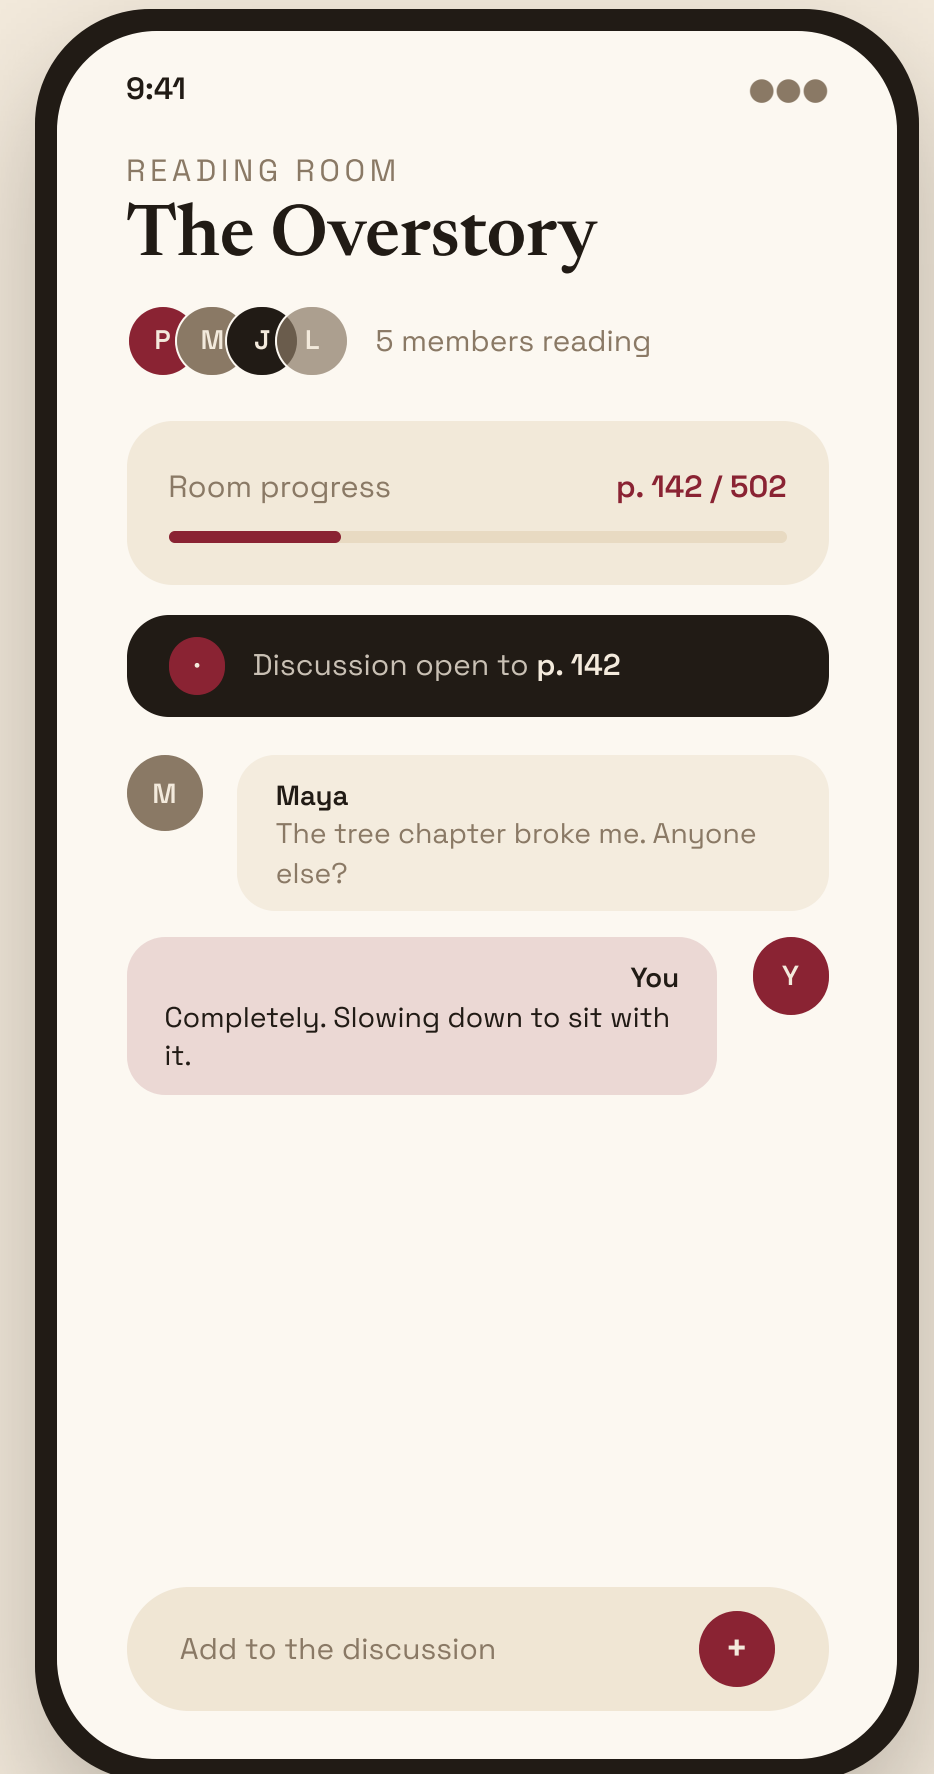

Celebrate the last page — and protect the streak.

BOOK CLUBS, REIMAGINED

A room for every book your circle reads.

Start a Reading Room around any title. Everyone reads on their own pace, and the discussion stays spoiler-safe — locked to the page the slowest reader has reached.

- Shared timeline — see how far the whole room has read.
- Spoiler gate — threads unlock as everyone catches up.
- Gentle pace — a weekly target keeps the room together.

9:41

Pachinko · p. 96

38%

History has failed us, but no matter. She had spent her whole life waiting, and now the waiting had become a kind of faith.

The sea was the same gray it had always been, and the boats came home the way they always did.

M Maya · left a note

This line is the whole book. Read it twice.

Jordan and 2 others reacted

In the morning the market opened early, and the smell of frying oil drifted between the stalls like a promise.

Add a note at this line...

READ IN THE MARGINS, TOGETHER

Your friends, right there on the page.

Friends drop notes and reactions anchored to a line. You only see them once you've read that far — so a great book becomes a quiet conversation you discover as you go.

- Page-anchored — every note lives exactly where it was written.
- Spoiler-free — notes reveal only as you reach them.
- The moat — the one thing solo reading apps can't copy.

A YEAR WORTH SHARING

Your reading year, wrapped up.

Every December, ReadStreak turns a year of sessions into a recap built to share — books finished, hours read, longest streak, and where you landed against every reader.

- Built to post — story-shaped cards made for sharing.
- Growth engine — every share invites a new reader.

THE LAST PAGE, AND THE NEXT

Finish a book. Keep the streak alive.

Closing a book becomes a moment — a shareable card and an instant next read. And a missed day no longer ends everything: a streak freeze forgives the slip.

- Finish card — stats, a favorite line, and what to read next.
- Streak freeze — one off day won't cost the whole run.

Start a streak.

Bring your friends.

Log every book, time every session, and turn reading into the habit you keep — together.

Get ReadStreakreadstreak.app